Rhode Island International Film Festival

When

August 6th through August 11th

The Rhode Island International Film Festival, which takes place annually throughout Providence, is the largest public film festival in New England and an Academy of Motion Pictures Arts & Sciences qualifying event! It provides a unique platform for the creative and cultural discovery of new cinematic talent, both at home, nationally and globally.

This Flickers hosted and organized event compiles documentaries, dramas, shorts, comedies, among others created by independent filmmakers worldwide. Additionally, 25 French films have been officially selected for the festival, including the romantic drama, Délicate Gravité (Delicate Gravity), where the protagonist Paul receives an emotional message from Claire, and believes she is prepared to commit suicide.
